What Is the Procession of the Species?

An annual parade of puppets, costumes, musicians, and dancers . . . to dramatize the plight of endangered species all over the world.

When and Where?

The Procession takes place as part of the Endangered Species Faire, a 33 -year Chico tradition in the spring. In the parade, kids and adults who have created puppets, floats, masks, or costumes of endangered species march along with singers and dancers.

Preparing for the Procession

Months before the Procession, we hold workshops in the community and in the schools to help people create their critters, form dance and drum teams, or make individual stick puppets. Others team up to make giant puppets that require several people to operate. We also help form drum, dance, and float teams to join the march.

All creatures, great and small

How to Participate

- Join one of the BEC puppet-making workshops starting in the spring of 2013.
- Or request an in-school workshop —we'll come to your school for a series of workshops where every student is able to learn about an endangered species and create a puppet.
- And fill out an application, available February 15.
